Propose Plan to Control Grain Markets

WILD TRADE OF WEEK LEADS TO DRASTIC MOVES

Shorter Days In All Stock Exchanges Are Decreed

BULLETIN
New York, July 22—(AP)—Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the Senate Banking and Currency committee, said today he planned to confer Monday with officers of the New York Stock Exchange regarding present stock speculation.

The brief statement issued from his office did not amplify on the reason for the meeting, other than that it was "in view of the prevailing situation on the New York Stock Exchange and the various exchanges throughout the country."

Pecora has been conducting the hearings of the Banking and Currency sub-committee into private banking and the stock market.

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Proposals for a new plan to limit wheat price fluctuations were reported here today to have been placed before Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

The idea is to restrict price changes either up or down to a certain range above or below $1.03 a bushel, the commodity parity aimed at by the Agricultural Adjustment Act established recently by Congress.

Prominent grain men in Chicago are understood to have discussed the plan with Secretary Wallace at Washington over the long distance telephone. In some quarters here, the plan is expected to be taken up at a conference in Washington Monday to which organized groups in the grain trade have been summoned. Highest officials of the country's grain exchanges are already enroute to Washington to be in readiness to participate in preparations for any action taken.

It is asserted by advocates of the plan that the measure would be in accord with administration suggestions to limit unduly rapid swings in the grain market.

Under this plan, in the various grain markets in Chicago and elsewhere buyers and handlers of grain would be licensed under the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Those who did not subscribe to an agreement to refrain from buying or offering to sell grain outside of authorized price ranges would be deprived of their right to do business.

The agreement itself would provide that a fair price for wheat is the parity price. On the basis of that Chicago price would be around $1.03.

However, the parity price would not be fixed as the only price at which wheat could be bought and sold. It is recognized that a healthy condition demands speculation, and that prices should be limited to a range above and below the parity price, as 95 cents and a maximum price of $1.10.

These figures, however, are not authoritative but illustrative.

WALLACE INTERESTED
Washington, July 22—(AP)—Secretary Wallace said today that no plan for limiting price ranges for wheat above and below $1.03 a bushel has been laid before him, but he indicated interest in the proposal which, it was reported, Chicago had been presented to him in telephone conversations.

Wallace said no action on any plan would be taken by farm administrators until after Monday's conference here with handlers of grain, including representatives of exchanges and brokerage houses.

At that time administrators intend that the industry offer suggestions for stabilizing prices of wheat and other grains, and that the initiative be taken by them instead of administrators laying a fully-hatched plan before the group.

FIVE PLUNGED TO DEATH FROM AN OPEN BRIDGE

Party Returning from Dance In New Jersey Met Tragedy

Seaside Heights, N. J., July 22—(AP)—A party of five young people, returning from a dance in Asbury Park, met death early today when their automobile plunged through the open draw on Bay Bridge into Barnegat Bay.

All five bodies were recovered and Coroner Herbert Le Compte said that at least three of the victims and probably all five had been killed in a crash preceding the plunge, and did not die by drowning.

The victims, all residents of Forked River, were: Mary Atkins, 17; Mary Buntin, 17; Leonard Nathan, 21; Marcus Matthews, 20; and Joseph Farrell, an aviator.

The sedan in which the party was riding was torn into four parts as it tore through the heavy iron chain across the open Jack-knife draw before the plunge.

CHICAGO BOARD OF EDUCATION STANDING PAT

Big Stadium Meeting Develops No Change In Economy Program

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Criticism by both parents and educators who crowded their way into the huge Chicago Stadium in a meeting of protest, the Board of Education continued to stand pat today on its $5,000,000 economy program designed as a means of getting the Chicago schools out of the red.

At last night's meeting Charles H. Judd, dean of the University of Chicago School of Education, sounded the keynote when he said in an address that the public would not permit itself to be deceived and deprived, but would accept "intelligent" economies.

Also on the platform was William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools who in a surprise address offered an economy program of his own that he said would save $4,000,000 in the next three and a half months.

It was his first word since the drastic retrenchment plans of the board were announced. At that time he had sat with bowed head and said he would endeavor to enforce the orders of the trustees.

As the meeting got underway a stench bomb was tossed into its midst and police seized a number of men they classed as communists for questioning.

Germany's greatest mine disaster occurred at Radbold, Ruhrrevier, in 1908, when 360 lives were lost in a mine explosion.

Factor Looks At Four Suspected Of His Kidnaping; Result Of The Showup Was Not Announced Today

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Federal authorities and police were non-committal today after John Factor, millionaire speculator, had viewed the four Touhy gangsters suspected as being his kidnapers and refused to say whether he had been able to identify them.

The showup, resembling an amateur theatrical, took place in the office of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker with the unwilling cast consisting of Roger Touhy, Gustave "Gloomy Gus" Schaeffer, Willie Sharkey and Ed McFadden.

PUSH DRIVE TO FIND WORK FOR 6 MILLION MEN

Roosevelt and Johnson Pick Lieutenants In Recovery Program

By WILLIAM L. BEACLE
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)
Washington, July 22—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Hugh S. Johnson today began selecting 600 lieutenants to impel toward victory their unprecedented peacetime program for putting at least 6,000,000 idle to work by September.

Both were said to be highly pleased by first public reaction toward their scheme, under which employers would sign agreements with the President to increase pay and put more people to work by shortening the hours of those now employed.

A further molding of public opinion behind the plan is looked for when President Roosevelt on Monday night outlines it to the nation.

The next immediate step which began today, is the selection of recovery boards of seven in each of the Commerce Department's 24 districts and of additional boards of nine in each state. These units will advise federal headquarters on progress, and help the campaign.

Johnson meanwhile said he plans no exhaustive set of regulations governing application of the presidential agreements which will reach every employer through the mails on July 27.

"We'll administer this through the squawks," Johnson told newspapermen while seated at his desk where there were a number of national recovery administration posters bearing the eagle seal and the words "We do our part."

Every employer volunteering to pay the minimum wages and employ the maximum work week gets one of these insignias to display and put on his goods. Consumers may sign pledges to support employers who have signed the agreements.

"I mean," Johnson continued, "that when I hear a squawk I'll decide then what action to take. We haven't had one protest so far."

Dixon Band Asked To Play At World's Fair Illinois Day

The Dixon Chamber of Commerce today received an invitation from the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago for the Dixon Civic band to present a concert in the court of the Hall of Science on Illinois Day, August 11 from 9 to 10 P. M. The invitation, which is a decided honor for the Dixon musical organization, contains a proviso that if the band finds it inconvenient to appear at the fair on Illinois Day, arrangements will be made for it to play on some other day. The Civic Band Commission will determine whether the invitation shall be accepted or not.

A program of sports, including horse shoe pitching contests and a baseball game has been arranged and other entertainment features have been provided, together with a menu of appetizing refreshments.

Ogle Co. Culvert Project Gets O. K.

Factor Looks At Four Suspected Of His Kidnaping; Result Of The Showup Was Not Announced Today

However, local authorities declared before last night's showup that they were convinced the Touhy gang was responsible for the kidnaping. Also Federal agents under Melvin H. Purvis, head of the local Federal Bureau of Investigation, claimed to have found the farm house where Factor was held.

Purvis said it was in the Skokie valley marsh north of Chicago and that they were now seeking a grocer who had delivered food to it during Factor's imprisonment.

Oregon Votes 2-1 Repeal

IS TWENTIETH STATE AGAINST DRY AMENDMENT

State Constitution's Prohibition Laws Also Rejected

BULLETIN
Portland, Ore., July 22—(AP)—A majority of nearly two to one for repeal of the 18th Amendment and Oregon's state prohibition laws was maintained today as the count progressed on yesterday's special election. The vote from 1016 out of 1787 precincts was: Federal repeal—yes, 80,743; no, 46,975. State repeal yes, 85,035; no, 47,056.

Portland, Ore., July 22—(AP)—Oregon, on the basis of incomplete but conclusive returns, today was listed as the 20th state to vote for repeal of the 18th Amendment.

Repeal organizations, although saying they never had reason to doubt the outcome, expressed much satisfaction with the balloting. The Anti-Liquor League, formerly the Anti-Saloon League, stated through its president that "we are not giving up. We're ready to start all over again."

Repeal Statute Too
In addition to expressing their wish on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the voters were asked to express their desire on the state constitutional prohibition statutes.

The state statutes were virtually nullified when the enforcing act was repealed last November but the constitutional act still remained in the statutes.

Because double election boards had been dispensed with as an economy measure, the ballot counting was the slowest in years. Succeeding tabulations, however, only emphasized the growing wave of wet votes.

Multnomah county (Portland) voted approximately three to one for repeal. Outside Multnomah county the vote was about four to three for repeal. Oregon voted state prohibition in 1915.

Only four of the state's 36 counties remained in the dry column on early tabulations.

JOLSON PUNCHES WALT WINCHELL AT BOXING SHOW

Resents Columnist's Alleged Disparagement Of Mrs. Jolson

Hollywood, Calif., July 22—(AP)—Walter Winchell, gossip columnist from New York, took it on the button from Al Jolson last night.

Among the things the columnist never knew until now (he said so) is the way the actor can punch amiably, although Winchell insists "that when Jolson mauled him at the Hollywood Legion Stadium boxing show he was helped by another guy."

Four thousand persons saw the brawl and 4,000 versions were extant today, but the fact remains that Jolson hit Winchell because he didn't like him, because he resented things Winchell had put in a movie script reflecting disparagingly—Jolson said—on Ruby Keeler. And he resented that because Ruby Keeler is Mrs. Al Jolson.

Here's the story:
The actor and his actress wife were among the customers of the boxing show when Winchell came in, heading for his ringside seat right near the Jolson's. Miss Keeler, shy, dark-eyed and appealing, suddenly saw Winchell and began to cry.

Took It On Chin
Jolson looked around and spotted the columnist. With one movement he got up and swung on Winchell's chin. Winchell sat down without further ado, but he didn't take the count. He was game but his judgment was bad. As he came up he met Jolson's other fist, and down Winchell went a second time.

The spectators, by now standing on their seats to see a fight not armed on the evening's entertainment, lost count of the knock-downs at this point. Jolson said afterward he had floored the self-announced Broadway tattler several times.

"He hit me in the back of the neck," related Winchell later. "And there were two of them—two guys hit me."

Swung From Heels
Impromptu referees disagreed. Sports writers and others, including Detective Lieutenant "Lefty" James of the Los Angeles Police Department, said Jolson was "swung from his heels."

The two resolutions were sent to the President, to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Secretary of the Treasury, to the Comptroller of the Currency, the Postmaster General and to the Governor of the Chicago Federal Reserve District.

To Attempt Two-Way Hop Of Atlantic, Distance Mark

Pendine, Wales, July 22—(AP)—The famous flying Mollisons, Jim and Amy, took off this morning for New York on an ambitious adventure in which they hoped to fly to Baghdad after crossing the Atlantic twice.

In contrast to stormy weather that caused their plane, the two-motored Seafarer, to crash on the first takeoff attempt June 8, the weather was acceptable as the plane took the air at 11 A. M. Greenwich time (5 A. M. CST).

They planned to reach New York Sunday night and after a short rest to cross the ocean once more, seeking a distance non-stop record.

Capt. James A. Mollison, who made the first solo east-to-west flight over the Atlantic last August watched the final arrangements being made and saw to it that everything was shipshape.

"This may be my last spectacular flight," he declared when everything was ready. "I hope it isn't too great a venture."

Wife Looked Strained
His wife, Amy Johnson Mollison, who last November set a London-to-Cape Town record, looked a little strained as she jumped into the cockpit beside her husband at the dual controls. She wore white overalls.

"Now for the greatest adventure of my life," she exclaimed. There was very little wind as Mollison, who was at the guiding control, opened the throttle and began the run along the beach for the takeoff.

Clouds of sand were flung up as the Seafarer gathered speed and swept along at 70 miles an hour. Jim, handling the plane superbly, started it into the air after a 500 yard run.

There was a burst of cheering from the crowd as the Seafarer took off after reaching a height of 200 feet. Jim swung its nose toward the open Atlantic and the Mollisons started off toward the New World.

Waited Over A Month
The famous flying couple, each a holder of several aviation marks, had waited more than a month for weather such as prevailed today for the flight to New York, whence they plan to fly to Baghdad and then back to England.

Their first attempt on June 8, ended in a crash at the takeoff, but they were optimistic today and sure success would attend the venture which they called their "greatest gamble" and the swan song of their flying careers.

This was to be the first time they pooled their knowledge and ability. Capt. Mollison, who is 28, and light-complexioned Amy Johnson, 24, were married last July 29, after each had won fame in the air.

They seek three records—the first Great Britain-to-New York flight; the first two-way crossing of the Atlantic; a new non-stop, straight-line mark.

Plane Flying Gas Tank
Their plane, the Seafarer, is verily a flying gas tank; every available inch has been made into a fuel container.

Mollison was not particularly pleased with the weather prospects. "The weather is reasonably, but not particularly good," he declared.

STREAKS TOWARD NEW YORK TODAY ON THE LAST LAP

Defies A Splitting Headache As He Takes Off At Edmonton

BULLETIN
Winnipeg, Man., July 22—(AP)—An airplane believed to be Wiley Post's Winnie Mae, in which he is making the final Edmonton-New York leg of his round-the-world flight, passed north of this city at 1:21 P. M. CST. today. The ship was going fast toward the south-east.

Winnipeg is 750 miles from Edmonton. If the plane seen there was Post's he had made the flight in 4 hours 40 minutes.

BULLETIN
Humboldt, Saskatchewan, July 22—(AP)—A plane believed to be the Winnie Mae, in which Wiley Post is making the last leg of his round the world flight, passed here today at 12 noon CST., headed eastward at great speed. The ship was flying very high.

ON HIS LAST LEG
Edmonton, July 22—(AP)—Wiley Post, Oklahoma round-the-world flier, hopped off for New York on the last leg of his trip at 8:41 A. M. CST. today.

He had stayed in Edmonton only one hour and thirty-four minutes to refuel his ship, the Winnie Mae, and to get a brief rest after flying overnight from Fairbanks, Alaska. When he left Edmonton he was 20 hours and 12 minutes ahead of the record he set with Harold Gatty in 1931. Their elapsed time together when they took off here was 193 hours, 43 minutes. His time alone was 173 hours, 31 minutes.

He was determined to do the 2,200 miles to New York in one hop "if I can make it."

Completing the 14,500-mile leg from Fairbanks, Alaska, in 9 hours and 22 minutes, he arrived here at 7:01 A. M. CST.

Refused Food, Sleep
He was not hungry and he did not wish to sleep.

"I just want to get going," he said. Informed that he might expect a tail wind all the way to New York, a distance of 2,100 miles, the flier remarked, "I can stand it."

He hoped to be back in New York by 11 P. M. CST.

Post made a deft landing. He taxied the Winnie Mae across Blatchford Field in a driving rain and came to a halt a few feet from trucks waiting with gasoline for him.

For three minutes after he had stopped he sat in the cockpit, his hand clapped over his white eye patch. Then he clambered out, saying he had a splitting headache.

Greeted by 3,000
Still holding his head, he fell into the arms of a waiting official and was guided through 3,000 cheering people.

The last half of the leg from Fairbanks was complicated by bad weather, which, Post said, provided him with a "big worry." For three hours he had to fly at 20,000 feet. He remarked that the robot pilot with which he had difficulty earlier in the flight, had "worked okay" on the Fairbanks-Edmonton hop.

ON STRAIGHT ROUTE
New York, July 22—(AP)—Wiley Post's last lap on his flight around the world is a straight 2,100-mile flight from Edmonton to New York. That route—even more direct than the one that followed with Harold Gatty in 1931, when they winged around the world in eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes—will take the flier over Port Arthur, Ont., across northern Lake Superior and Lake Huron, past Toronto and into the United States in New York state, between Buffalo and Rochester.

The Post-Gatty time from Edmonton to New York was 14 hours and eight minutes. They stopped in Cleveland 29 minutes.

The flier can break the Post-Gatty record by arriving in New York before 7:01 P. M. CST. Sunday.

Higher Food Price: Welfare Costs Up
Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Due to an increase in the price of food, the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission said it would seek additional funds for the month of August to carry on its work among the unemployed.
New federal funds to the amount of $4,740,000 will be required.
The total requirements for the month will be $5,815,000 but balance of federal money on hand will be applied against this. The commission said it could depend on funds from the new state sales tax before the end of August.

Department put it in the record that Jolson stood squarely before his man and swung from the heels—fairly, squarely and very, very fast.
Anyway, to get back to Miss Keeler, Winchell had just finished a scenario for a leading Hollywood film, factory purporting—so it was said—to depict the lives of two persons very much like Mr. and Mrs. A. Jolson.
Winchell said the scenario is "about a gangster and a chorus girl but it's not about Jolson and his wife."
Miss Keeler, averred Jolson, was treated very badly being identified in the script with gangsters, bootleggers and the like. Miss Keeler, he said further, cried for days after leaving the nature of the projected story, and when he saw Winchell he saw red at the same time.
"Up And Popped Him" said Jolson. "I just up and popped him." Jolson said. "I punched Winchell several times and I know I knocked him down at least twice. I didn't hit him very hard, either."
But Winchell sat through the boxing show with apparent enjoyment. When he left he was flanked by two huskies.
Jolson said he would attempt to halt production of the Winchell picture. He said he would lay the matter before Will Hays, czar of moviedom, today.
Evidently the fight, in spite of the knockdowns, was a draw for Winchell received for nods from friends and Jolson got an ovation as he left the stadium. Winchell, jauntily self-possessed and little the worse for assault outside the ropes, said:
"Well publicity for the picture I want, don't you?"

U. S. Playwright Barred By Soviet
Moscow, July 22—(AP)—Marc Connelly, American playwright, was not aboard the steamer Kung-helm when it arrived at Leningrad today and Soviet Foreign Office officials confirmed the fact that he had been refused a visa by Intourist, the official Soviet touring agency.
None of the officials of Intourist would explain why the playwright was barred.
Officers of the steamer said that Connelly disembarked at Wisby, Sweden.
Meanwhile, it was said at the Foreign Office that the matter was being investigated and that if a "mistake" had been made it would be rectified. Officials indicated that a visa would be sent to him in Sweden if it was determined that an error had been made.

Stock Rallied Today
Stocks closed with a rally today after two strenuous hours in which fluctuations, though extremely erratic, were much narrower than those of yesterday.
Final prices were mostly above yesterday's close and shares that showed net losses were well above their lows of a mid-morning setback. The market had a number of $1 to $3 advances.
Rallying at the opening, prices slumped later when fresh waves of liquidation from impaired margin accounts relied on to the stock exchange, but supporting orders caught the leaders and quotations stiffened in the final quarter hour.

GRAIN TRADE BARRED

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—For the second successive day today futures trading in grains at the Chicago and Kansas City boards was barred. The suspension action followed a spectacular decline of stock prices on the New York Exchange in a 9,502,570 share day that brought back memories of 1929.
The decision to suspend trading for another day was reached by directors of the Chicago Board after a five-hour conference. Peter B. Carey, president, said it was requested by other exchanges to give clerical staffs opportunity to catch up with the huge volume of earlier in the week business.
Kansas City soon followed with similar action and announcements of other suspensions were expected.
Two-hour trading in cotton and securities was permitted in Chicago today and both there and Kansas City 15-minute periods were set aside for the holders of weekly privileges.

The Chicago Stock Exchange today followed the action of the New York Exchange and limited trading to three hours daily, effective Monday. Trading will open at 11 o'clock Chicago Daylight Time and will close at the usual time, 2 o'clock.

HYMN TO THE NIGHT

HEARD the trailing garments of the night
Sweep through her marble halls!

I felt her presence, by its spell of night,
Stoop o'er me from above;
The calm majestic presence of the night,
As of the one I love.

I heard the sounds of sorrow and delight,
The manifold, soft chimes,
That fill the haunted chambers of the night,
Like some old poet's rhymes.

From the cool cisterns of the mid-night air
My spirit drank repose;
The fountain of perpetual peace flows there—
From those deep cisterns flows.

O holy night! from thee I learn to bear
What man has borne before!
Thou layest thy finger on the lips of care,
And they complain no more.

Henry W. Longfellow.

Pleasant Meeting of Bethel Missionary Soc.
A pleasant meeting of the Missionary Society of the Bethel United Evangelical church, was held at the home of Mrs. John Godt, on Thursday afternoon, with a good attendance of members and friends. Mrs. Emma Thompson and Mrs. Hilda Lester assisted their mother in entertaining and served refreshments during the social period.

The program included hearty songs by all. "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" and "The Service of the King" and "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go." Mrs. Godt read the Scripture lesson and several members offered prayers.

Two leaflets were read, one by Mrs. Jessie Gaul, entitled "Because of 60 Blessing Boxes," and the other by Mrs. Louise Jeanguenot: "Thine Is the Power" were very much enjoyed.

Mrs. Emma Thompson developed the topic, "God and the Census" in a very interesting manner. She covered the first chapter of the new Study Book, The Church and the Community, and Pioneer Missionary Work in Our Own Land, and the Gospel being started in St. Louis and surrounding territories by John Mason Peck in the early spring of 1817.

The president took charge of the business session and the reports of the last year's work was given, which was very satisfactory. Items of interest in Missionary fields were given and some money will be sent to several fields of activities. Paying of dues and the offerings were lifted and the president closed the meeting with a prayer.

BAKED FISH—THE HOT DISH FOR HOT WEATHER

Makes Appetizing Meal Served With Creamed Corn, Potatoes and Tomatoes

By NEA Service—

Baked stuffed fish is one of the nicest dishes you can serve your family in the summer time.

In summer, it is the planning and preparation of hot dishes which cause the homemaker lots of trouble and worry. It's easy to have all the appetizing cold dishes—but everyone needs at least one hot dish a day, no matter how high the temperature rises.

That one hot dish may be a hot soup for luncheon or it may be the main course of dinner.

Fish is simple to prepare and easily digested.

Here's the way to make, stuff and serve a fish which will serve four people:

You need a two and one-half pound fish, 1-4 loaf of stale white bread, 1 small onion, thyme, salt and pepper to taste, 1 corn on the cob, 2 large tomatoes, 4 small new potatoes, 1 pound string beans, 4 patty shells, 1 cup milk or 1-2 cup of cream, 1 tablespoonful of butter and a few anchovies.

You may use bluefish, mackerel, sea bass or any other fresh fish which your favorite market has in stock.

Clean the fish, slit carefully and remove the backbone without disturbing the meat. Make a bread filling out of the soaked stale bread, chopped onion, thyme and seasoning. Stuff the fish with the filling.

Place in an oven and allow to bake 30 or 40 minutes. While the fish is baking, prepare the vegetables that are to be served with it. Boil or steam the corn on the cob. When it is quite tender, cut off the kernels. Place them in a saucepan and add butter, milk or cream, salt and pepper. Stir the mixture while you are heating it. Do not put the creamed corn in the patty shells until just before you are ready to take the platter of fish to the table.

Halve the tomatoes and bake them in a saucepan to which has been added enough water and butter to keep them from burning.

Boil the string beans and potatoes in the ordinary manner.

When the fish is cooked, place it on a platter and arrange the vegetables around it. Two halves of tomato, two patty shells filled with creamed corn and two boiled potatoes should be placed on either side of the fish. Sprinkle the string beans over both fish and other vegetables.

Garnish the baked fish with anchovies.

Miss Lucile Faivre Bride Joseph Walter

The following article from the DeKalb Daily Chronicle should prove of interest to readers of this paper since the bride mentioned formerly lived near Amboy. The article:

"One of the most beautiful and impressive weddings ever witnessed at St. Mary's Church at DeKalb, was solemnized when Miss Lucile Faivre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Faivre of South Malta road, DeKalb, became the bride of Joseph Walter of Coles Blvd. Portsmouth, Ohio. The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Mar. J. A. Solon, on July 19th.

"The bride as she entered on the arm of her father, was quaintly charming, in an ivory satin gown that her mother had worn on her wedding day, and a long tulle veil caught back with baby's breath. She carried a huge arm bouquet of Easter lilies and an old ivory prayer book, which her mother, too, had carried to the altar at her wedding.

Miss Madeline Faivre, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was lovely in a gown of pastel green lace cloth with accessories to match. She carried an arm bouquet of Easter lilies and Tullam roses. The bridesmaids were the bride's two sisters, the Misses Rita and Eileen Faivre, Miss Jeanette Wurth of Wilmette and Miss Marian Mathewson of DeKalb. They were beautifully attired in lace cloth of pink flowers on a white ground. All wore large white picture hats with other accessories of white and carried pink roses and baby's breath.

Two tiny flower girls, Mary Agnes Faivre and Gladys Montavon, dressed in white and green and carrying big baskets of fragrant pink and white garden flowers, led the bridal procession into the church.

As the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Mrs. Robert McCormick, the bride's little brother, Charles, dressed in white, carried the wedding ring in the heart of a lily.

The groom's only attendant was his brother George Walter of Portsmouth. Earl Donahoe and James Flood acted as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony a three-course dinner was served to about 100 guests at the home of the bride's parents by the Misses Dorothy O'Brien, Eleanor and Lorraine Flood, Adelle Donahoe, Mary Margaret Dietrich, Esther, Mae and Eleanor Montavon.

Marie and Catherine Faivre.

Mrs. Walters attended the St. Mary's school in DeKalb and was a graduate of the DeKalb Township High school. In 1932 she was graduated from the Northern Illinois State Teachers College. For the past year she has been teaching in the Gallagher school.

The groom attended the Holy Redeemer School of Portsmouth and the Portsmouth High School. For the past several years he has been in business in Portsmouth. For her going-away costume Mrs. Walter had a tailored suit of white and green. After a short honeymoon in the east the young couple will make their home in Portsmouth, Ohio.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Frederic Walter, George and Mary Frances Walter; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Schoonover and family, all of Portsmouth; Miss Jeanette Wurth of Wilmette; the George and Peter Montavon families of West Brooklyn; John, Marie and Catherine Faivre, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Montavon and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Montavon of Sublette; Louis Faivre, Myrel and Leo Faivre of Amboy; Lawrence Behlman and Julius Simon of Portsmouth; Miss Delphine Faivre of Cortland; Mrs. Catherine Montavon and Ethel Montavon of Rushtown, Ohio.

Success Depends on Support of Public

"The success of the National Recovery Act," says Mrs. Roy C. Jacobson of the Illinois League of Women Voters "depends upon public understanding and aggressive public support. It is closely related to study items on the League's program, and League study and discussion of this act may prove a distinct factor in securing the full cooperation essential to its administration."

"The League's concern has been recognized by the appointment of Miss Belle Sherwin, National President, as a member of a committee working under the National Recovery Act."

"A minimum wage law was needed also as a corollary to the National Recovery Act, in which there are provisions for the fixing of hours and wages, and it is fortunate that one was passed by our Illinois Legislature. Because it will be such a tremendous task for the federal government to ensure the carrying out of these regulations, it is most essential that the state department of labor give cooperation. Furthermore, not all occupations will be covered under the National Recovery Act which can be covered by a state act. Finally, we have seen in the enforcement of prohibition how essential it is to have the support of public opinion. Public opinion must be organized behind the Industrial Recovery Act if we are to get the greatest good from it."

GAMES OF SPORT AND THE GAME OF BUSINESS.

"Business in the United States is now emerging from one of the greatest crises in its history, and at the same time entering another, but different kind of crisis," says the Railway Age. "The crisis it is entering will be caused by policies of the federal government which are intended ostensibly to promote economic recovery, but are intended also to establish a 'planned economy' which will prevent such excesses and abuses in business as are believed by those formulating and administering the government's economic policies to have caused the present depression. "One of the methods being used to correct the faults of the capitalistic system which are deemed to have caused the recent great catastrophe is that of, in effect, requiring all major industries to adopt codes to eliminate unfair competition. There is actually only one measure of the fairness of any act or practice in business, and that is the public interest.

"When we compare the ways in which games of sport and the game of business are played, we perceive at once a very great contrast. Every competitive sport, from tiddle-dy-winks to pugilism, is regulated by rules the purpose of which is to make success dependent entirely upon the skill and fairness of the players, and any disregard of these rules causes a man to be disqualified as a player and ostracized as an undesirable member of society. The game of business is the greatest of all games, and every right thinking man has views as to the rules according to which it should be played; but getting money has been allowed to become so paramount a consideration that men who get a large amount of it usually are credited with ability and 'success' in playing the game of business, although they may have got the money by violating every principle of honor and decency. If the government's policy of requiring the various industries to adopt and adhere to codes of fair competition should result in causing all business to be conducted in accordance with rules that would give opportunity in business in proportion to ability and honor, it would confer the greatest possible boon upon most business men as well as upon the general public.

"If the government is entirely sincere in its determination to eliminate unfair competition, which we do not question, it must be plain to its officials who are charged with carrying out its industrial recovery program that it has not more obvious duty than that of equalizing the conditions of competition between the railways, on the one hand, and of other means of transportation, on the other hand, as much as they can be equalized by the application to them of comparable government policies.

"We are embarked upon an experiment in economics unprecedented in all history in both its methods and its magnitude. As the government has ample power to make the experiment and is going to make it whether business men like it or not, the only reasonable thing for business men to do in the early future is to give the government officials in charge of it their full co-operation by helping them to carry out those policies that business men believe to be sound, or required by law regardless of their soundness, and by opposing those policies they believe to be unsound and not required by law. What the final effects will be upon the capitalistic system in the United States no one is wise enough to foresee. It may be improved, or it may be destroyed, but that the methods used in the conduct of production, transportation, commerce and finance, and the distribution of the income derived from them, will long be greatly changed now seems highly probable."—Railway Age.

There's no harm in exposing the human body. It is a beautiful work of nature. . . . Some people would want to put pants on a horse.—Judge Joseph B. David, Chicago, on nudism.

Art is emerging from a transition period just as the social order is taking on a new form. Painters will serve the public rather than cater to their own fastidious ideas.—Homer Saint-Gaudens, Carnegie Institute of Fine Arts.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The schoolroom was a real strange scene. Said Scouty, "Gee, these fish seem keen to study. Why most schools are out. Why is this open now?"

"To all the fish, schoolwork is play. They even come on Saturday," replied the kindly teacher. "Missing school we don't allow."

And then she turned to all her fish and said, "Attention, now! I wish to introduce you to this happy band of Tynymites."

"They're curious as they can be. It always is real thrilling when they come upon new sights."

"You fish all know how I can rave, if I get mad. You had best behave. Get out your singing books now and we'll have a little song."

One little fish then said, "Which one? Oh, teacher, it will be real fun to sing the welcome song and let our voices ring out very, very strong."

"All right," replied the teacher. "You can sing that pretty song all through and then we will let Wee Willie Bass sing some tune all alone."

The welcome song then rang out clear. "Oh, Tynymites, you're welcome here! Please feel we're glad to have you and that our home is your own."

"Sing it again and we will join in," said happy Duncy, with a grin. And when they did, the teacher said, "That sounded very sweet!"

"Now Willie Bass will have his turn. He practiced very hard to learn the song that he is going to sing. I hope it is a treat."

Wee Willie seemed to feel real proud. He turned and faced the Tynymites and then began to sing the little song he knew so well.

He made a bow when he was through. One Tynymite shouted, "Good for you!" Another jumped up to his feet and shouted, "That was swell!"

(Duncy entertains the fish in the next story.)

A BOOK A DAY

A neat and straightforward detective story without frills, fancy language or exhibitionistic detectives is available for your entertainment in "Prove It, Mr. Tolefree," by R. A. J. Walling.

Mr. Tolefree, that eminent London investigator who usually deals with business scandals, gets called down to an obscure country house to find out whether the well-known capitalist who was believed to have committed suicide did not, after all, get foully done in by somebody else.

Naturally enough, he finds out that that is indeed the case; furthermore, he finds out who did it. The finding out process is suitably complicated by the fact that someone keeps taking pot-shots from the dark at four Mr. Tolefree. When he finally bobs to the surface with the criminal in his teeth you have the feeling that you have read a very competent and entertaining mystery tale.

"Death Whispers," by Joseph B. Carr introduces a brand new detective in the person of Oecola Archer. There seems to be a large school of writers who feel that a mystery story is bound to be good if the detective is only odd enough and by that standard this ought to be a "duh!" for Mr. Archer—he's fat and gluttonous, bawdier and more than a trifle balmy—is dizzy enough for anybody.

The story itself, which has to do with a midnight murder in a cavernous old New England mansion, would be really good if the unbelievable Archer would only get out of the way. He's a distinct drawback, not an asset.

Several months ago he accepted the Christ who died for our sins and during his illness was much in communion with his Savior who prepared him for his home-going so peacefully and sweetly.

He leaves his beloved wife, two children, Kay of Glen Ellyn and Cecil of Kenosha, Wis., also one sister, Mrs. Harry Crusius of Ososco, Mich., and one brother, Walter O. Sunday of Marshalltown, Iowa. Six grandchildren also survive: Arlene, Vera, Theda and Lyle children of Kay Sunday and wife Eugene and Gordon, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sunday. Three children preceded him in death, Gladys and Vernon who died in infancy and Mrs. Nina Thomas whose death occurred a number of years ago.

The deceased was a good father, always thinking of the welfare of his children during their earlier years of life, and as head of the family he strived strenuously. He labored long, when they retired from the farm and moved to town.

Rev. O. D. Buck of the Church of the Brethren conducted the funeral service at the late home Monday afternoon. The male quartet, comprised of O. D. Buck, E. R. Buck, T. E. Winger and Scott Smith sang two funeral numbers. The casket bearers were J. H. Lincoln, J. C. Weigle, F. D. Kelly, J. T. Gilbert, L. A. Trottnow, A. F. Dierdorff. Interment in the local cemetery.

Picnic A Success
The following items concerning the Franklin Grove Club picnic at Chicago were of interest: reading: The 1933 annual meeting of the Franklin Grove Club of Chicago was held at Garfield park with between forty and fifty former residents of Franklin Grove in attendance. U. G. Buck, the retiring president, presided and after a few appropriate remarks proceeded to the business of electing officers for the ensuing two years. Robert Wallace MacGregor, oldest son of the late Frank MacGregor, who served the club so successfully as president for four years, was elected president; his mother, Mrs. Jessie Hohn MacGregor, was elected secretary; and Mrs. Earl Orner, re-elected treasurer. Mrs. N. Renee Hunsch was appointed social hostess, and Mrs. Harry Lincoln MacGregor, chairman of publicity. Mrs. Frederick Dew, U. G. Buck, and E. A. Buck and William MacGregor composed the advisory council.

The executive committee, composed of the officers of the club and the advisory committee are planning a number of interesting social affairs for the coming year, among them being tentative arrangements for a trip to Franklin Grove a little later in the summer.

Mrs. Jessie MacGregor, secretary of 5432 West Ohio street, Chicago, will appreciate having former residents of Franklin Grove who are not enrolled as members, send her their addresses and would also be grateful to friends now living in Franklin Grove who will send her the names and addresses of friends now living in Chicago and vicinity so that we may send them an invitation to join the club and to take part in the activities. Such cooperation will enable the club to swell its membership and accomplish much toward the completion of plans now in contemplation. Among those in attendance were: C. F. Blocher, Mrs. Frank MacGregor, and sons Robert and Richard, Mrs. Renee Hunsch, N. Renee Hunsch, Robert MacGregor Hunsch, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dew, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Blocher, Clarence J. Fans Puzzled Because
Up In Race

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.,
Associated Press Sports Writer
When Boston's two ball clubs are warring, puzzled fans wonder why they aren't higher up the standings.

They offered a sample of what they can do at their best when the Braves blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 7 to 0 yesterday of the three hit pitching of Huck Betts and the Red Sox whaled Chicago's White Sox 12 to 2. But when the returns were in, the Nationals were in fifth place, 1½ games behind the league leading New York Giants and the Red Sox, in seventh, were not even in sight of the drawn battle between the Yankees and Washington for the American league lead.

Bill Walker gave Betts a close fight for six innings but the Braves cut loose and ran up all their runs in three frames to finish only a half game behind the Cards. Hol Lee's homer with two on and the big blow of the game. The Red Sox piled up 18 hits, with every man getting his share, while Gordon (Dusty) Rhodes limited the White Sox to six.

Senators-Yanks Deadlock
Meanwhile the Yankees and Senators continued their deadlock by winning lopsided victories and the Giants increased their National League margin by taking an exciting game from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 5 when Mel Ott's single with the bases loaded brought in the tying and winning runs in the ninth.

Starting with Lou Gehrig's 18th homer, his first in a month, in the first inning the Yankees pounded out a 10 to 2 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Russell Van Atta held Cleveland to three hits until he was rendered hors de combat by Odell Hale's liner in the seventh, then Wiley Moore finished, giving two more. Van Atta suffered a broken blood vessel in his pitching arm and probably will be out for a couple of weeks.

Whitehill Beats Tigers
Earl Whitehill pitched steadily to give Washington a 7-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers while Budd Myer's triple with the bases full in the second started the scoring.

Cincinnati moved from eighth place to sixth in the National League with a 2 to 1 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. For the second day in a row, the Reds won in the ninth. Paul Derringer getting the blow that won his own game. Brooklyn dropped to the cellar while the Phillies, idle in Chicago finished a point behind Cincinnati.

CHUCK KLEIN IS ALL-AROUND STAR
OF THE HITTERS

The Phillies' Star Leads In Four Departments Of Major Leagues

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Only Chuck Klein, ace of the Phillies, escaped the blight that attacked major league batting averages during the past week.

Holding his place as all-around hitting star of the big leagues, Klein boosted his mark four points to 370 by rapping out eight hits in 18 times at bat. That gave him the best average in both circuits after yesterday's games as other "first ten" players, with two notable exceptions, lost from three to 14 points apiece. Floyd "Arky" Vaughan of Pittsburgh moved up to a four-place tie in the National League, improving his mark nine points, and Wes Schulmerich of the Phillies gained ten.

The American League leader, Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics, dropped six points to 368, while his leading rivals, Al Simmons of Chicago and Joe Cronin of Washington wound up in a tie at 360 with losses of seven and six points respectively.

In the National Spud Davis and Chuck Fullis of the Phillies held second and third places at 348 and 333, although the former lost seven points and the latter ten.

Klein, already first in three slugging departments in his league, took the lead in a fourth as he boosted his hit total to 129, passing Fullis. His other totals were 18 home runs, 29 doubles and 81 runs batted in.

ELINOR STAFFORD, 20, falls in love with BARRETT COLVIN, 35, but her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a heartless flirt.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELIA SEXTON, dies she leaves her fortune to Barrett. Then drunken VANCE CARTER, who is Elinor's father, Barrett tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give her the entire Stafford fortune and divide among her relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, in spite of the lies Lida has told him, finds himself more in love with Elinor than ever. He has a word, nine-year-old GERALD MOORE, who is the son of his half-sister, MARCIA RANDOLPH. Barrett has promised Marcia never to reveal the boy's true story.

The doctor orders a change of climate for Elinor's father and sends her to Alton. Lida asks Barrett for $30,000. When he refuses she puts detection on his trail and learns about his work. Lida concludes the boy is Barrett's son.

Barrett pays an unannounced visit to Alton. He finds BOB TELLER there and suspects Elinor is carrying on a flirtation with Bob.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

"WHAT attractive couple," Barrett commented, glancing at the tray.

Elinor nodded. "Everything here is attractive. I understand the owners haven't much money but they certainly have excellent taste. It's a darling house. I love it!"

"It's for sale, Elinor. Just as it is—furnished. May I buy it for you?" Barrett asked earnestly. She looked startled, raising her face to his.

"I'd like to leave something with you that will make you remember me," he said wistfully. "I should think you could let me do that—if you leave me. Let me get it any way and you can decide later about keeping it. Will you, dear?"

He had said, "If you leave me—." The thought churned in Elinor's heart and set her pulse racing. Then he had thought she might not leave him!

"You're very kind—" she whispered.

"Not a bit of it!" He drew his hand away, moistened his lips and sat back away from her. He was going soft again, he warned himself.

"How about the house?" he questioned after a silence as she set her cup on the tray.

"I'm tempted," she admitted. "They even have the books I like on the shelves. Could you buy the books too?" she finished eagerly.

"I should think so. I understand the house is offered just as it is."

It was offered as the result of another domestic tragedy, he knew, but he didn't want Elinor to know that. It might change her feeling for the place a bit. Later she played for him softly, so that the piano could not be heard in the wing where Bentwell Stafford slept. Finally, resorting to "get it over," Barrett suggested that they go to the terrace. He laid a light wrap about her shoulders, remonstrated that it wouldn't keep her warm. She answered, as women always do, that it was very warm and they stepped across the window-sill into the night.

RAIN was coming and big, billowing clouds raced across the moon. Now the terrace was bathed in silver; now black. The lights of the village pricked the ebon curtain to the north. The soft stir was in the air that comes before a tempestuous, southern downpour. Leaves trembled, and somewhere a shutter swung. From the nearest house, a half acre away, came the hushed strains of the latest, sentimentally appealing waltz. Some blossoms proclaimed themselves and the fact that the moon had been hot by loosing a heavy, sweet odor.

Barrett wanted to be beyond reach of the house, beyond a point where a keenly listening ear could catch even so much as a chance phrase. Drawing her arm through his, he led her to a balustrade that guarded a terrace from a dramatically beautiful drop.

"This is a charming place," he murmured a trifle thickly as she withdrew her arm.

"Yes—"

He leaned against the balustrade against which she too, was leaning. He found it difficult to begin.

"Cigaret?" he asked.

"No, thank you."

She watched his face as he held a lighter with a wind guard to his cigarette. Something had made him rather nervous, she saw. Long lines were pulled at the sides of his lips, which were stiff, yet uneasy.

"How long can you stay?" she asked.

"As long as you want me to," he answered. He snapped the lighter shut; slipped it into a pocket. She felt that his eyebrows were drawn close although just then the moon was kept from shedding light by a dense bank of clouds.

Was he already regretting his gentleness, she wondered. A keen-bladed knife seemed plunged into her heart and drawn slowly out again as she considered the question.

"I want you to stay as long as you want to," she said with a coolness of which she was proud. "I want from you only what you can give—without regret."

"I shall regret giving you nothing," he said quickly. "If you will remember our bargain."

"What bargain, Barrett?"

"We agreed, you remember, that neither of us was to indulge in a flirtation during this year."

"But, Barrett, I never have," she answered. "I couldn't! I never did—before our marriage."

FOR a few minutes he could not trust himself to speak. Did she think him a complete fool? he asked himself.

"Elinor, I know you are very attractive. You must have had love affairs," he managed to say at length without betraying the deep anger that shook him.

"But I never appealed to men, Barrett. That's a brutal fact. I don't like to admit it; but it is the fact—"

The moon had shaken herself free from the mask of clouds.

"Older men?" Barrett questioned slowly. "I've heard they liked you?" He was looking down at her, his eyes narrow.

"Yes," she admitted and smiled. To him her smile seemed cynically and cruelly amused.

He drew a deep, rasping breath. One great storm cloud slipped over the silver moon and put out its light. Barrett put his hands upon Elinor's arms to draw her close. His motion was rough, he knew afterward. Brutally rough.

"All older men," he confessed unsteadily, "are not so old as they seem. It is not fair—the thing you do to us. I can't help my feeling for you even though I know what you are—or aren't—"

"I don't—" she began, but his hot lips pressed against hers to stifle the sentence.

He held her away, laughing.

Again he swept her close. When she at last struggled free he sagged back against the balustrade, breathing hard. She touched her bruised lips with trembling fingers. She too was breathing hard and crying a little.

"I know you better than you think, you see," he stated. He had not seen her tears. "I happen to have known of some of your affairs for some time. I'm sorry I lost my head. But don't pretend surprise and fright! You see I wouldn't be fooled!"

SHE turned abruptly and, head high, moved toward one of the long French windows—an oblong, lemon square in the blackness. Her knees were shaking, her heart pounding. She had learned love and hate and their possible blend.

Something made him follow her. In the living room he overtook her to lay an arresting hand upon her arm. She turned to him, head still high. "By God," he whispered, staring down at her. They were real tears—real!

"Don't! Let me go!" she appealed, voice breaking. He followed her, humble and utterly shaken, to watch her make her way up the stairs.

After a long moment he followed her. "Elinor?" he whispered.

"Don't—" she begged. "I can't—talk now!"

She went into her room and he into his. He heard her turn the key in the lock of the door between the rooms. He stared long and dully at the door. The slight sound hurt almost as deeply as the fright he had seen in her eyes.

Would he ever again have the trust she had once given him? He remembered a maxim an eastern priest had quoted, "To know the value of a thing you must lose it."

He heard her moving in the adjoining room as he sank back in a low chair. He did not sleep and knew she did not. He saw the light in her room go on at three, printing a slit of yellow beneath the door. The light remained there for two hours.

Elinor lay perfectly quiet. If Barrett had loved her how she would have welcomed that moment! But he had said only that he understood her and her affairs. She would have trusted him anywhere! He could believe as he liked. He had had the chance to know her. Never would she say a word to defend herself.

What would be the use? She had denied her guilt and he had laughed at her denial.

The night was endless. She looked at a small clock that ticked merrily beside her bed. The hands pointed at half past four.

OUR CAPTAIN

(By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton.)

In his commencement address at Vassar College two years ago, President Roosevelt told two stories no one can forget. They grew out of his experience in the Navy during the World War, the first showing the difference between theoretical and practical knowledge.

Two young officers, fresh from the Naval Academy were taken on a ship conveying troops to Europe to get practical training. Under gray, slate-colored skies the Captain sent them to take the reckoning and learn the location. They did so, figuring out the result, and brought in their report. The old Captain looked at the young officers and said: "Take off your hats, boys. This is a very solemn moment. By your reckoning we are right in the middle of Westminster Abbey!"

The other story concerned an American cruiser that was conveying British troops off the coast of France. No lights were allowed to be seen at night, not even the striking of a match. The American officer, seeing a light on a British ship, came alongside and said, "Put out the light!" Later he saw it still burning—hanging further out. "Put out the light, I told you," the officer cried. "Beg your pardon sir," replied the British officer; "we did not understand that you meant to extinguish it!"

If we do not speak the same language we are sure to misunderstand. Happily the Commander of our Ship of State speaks simply and plainly, and we know what he means. It is our language. Better still, his words are followed by acts swift, direct, decisive, and we begin to have confidence that he will bring us into calmer seas. Other storms may beat upon us.

but it means much to have a leader with courage.

Even his smile is worth a fabulous sum to the country—it helps to balance our spiritual budget. We were so gloomy and grumpy, expecting to go on from the bottom down. Then a new Happy Warrior arrived on the field, fighting the grim forces of despair with a gay heart. He gave us hope once more. He made us feel, in spite of fear, that there is a way out of the bog, and a path through the fog.
